erations in Manchuria is expected t General Kuropatkin's retreat was definitely accomplished, the best informed nilitary circles were convinced that Yield Marshal Oyama could not imme ANNUAL MEETING TO BE HELD diately renew his aggressive tactics.
All the information since received regarding the condition of the Japanese armies has strengthened the conviction that Oyama will require a considerable ime to organize a new advance and t is now believed that he will probably await reinforcements of men and guns, to make good his losses at Liao Yang. These, it is reported, will be ready to eave Japan at the end of the month. Moreover, it would create no surprise here if a Japanese diversion is at-tempted in the direction of Vladivostok for election of directors and transaction of general business will be held in the Boston building, Denver, Monday, Oct. 17, at 2 p. m.

The properties lately sold by this company to stockholders and directors have now been conveyed to the Coloby train tomorrow.

Plans Kept Secret.

There is considerable mystery about Europatkin's plans. Although all the information obtainable indicates that the bulk of his army is still around Mukden and the official intimations are that Kuropatkin does not contemplate retiring further at present, there is considerable scepticism on these points. About all that is definitely known is that a considerable number of his troops have already gone north, that the heights near the Liao river at Tie pass have been fortified, that the pass has been secured and that eavairy is as been secured and that cavalry is couting wide on the Russian flanks or signal the first indications of a new urning movement on the part of the apanese. Only outpost skirmishes of ittle importance have been reported.

Serieus at Port Arthur.

The Japanese are now expected to redouble their efforts before Port Arthur, whence the news received is not encouraging. In spite of the success which hitherto has attended the defense, the Russian lines are being drawn closer, the garrison is undergoing severe privations, and its resisting power is weakening under the strain. These students of government see in the words and acts of President Roose-relt a menace to the institutions of the Republic. Read what they have resolved respecting the president who has said that there are times when "it may be necessary to overturn constitutions, to disregard statutes just as it may be necessary to establish a vigilance committee or take refuge in lynch laws."

Declaration of Principles.

The Parker Constitution club declares as follows?

"The American people, in their constitution, have wisely separated the executive and lawmaking powers of government. They have wisely set bounds to the powers vested in the president, and in the president and congress jointly. Moreover, it has always been their will, obedient to the admonition of Washington in his farewell address, that their public officers should hold sacred the obligations of international law and international fair dealing, and should refrain from aggression upon other nations and peoples, and from needless intermediding in their affairs.

"The American people, adhering to these principles and policies through the perfod of their existence as a pation, have prospered and grown great vastly beyond the measure of any greatness or prosperity ever built upon other principles and policies, and have made a shining demonstration full of cheer to mankind that there is no limitation to the welfare and achievement of a republic wherein freedom and law are maintained, and the rights of weaker peoples are respected.

If this action had not been taken it was feared by the butchers that complications of a serious nature would have been sure to arise.

It is stated that the eastern packers were ready to do a little war business of their own. They had formidable supplies shipped into the city, they had secured options on a number of stores and had even gone so far as to make preparations to engage competent men to become managers of their several projected establishments. Call Roosevelt Autocrat.

"This venerable and beneficent policy President Roosevelt has undertaken to reverse and in its place to set up a policy of autocratic force. He has shown that a president who has the will to usurp legislative functions. to exait the power of the executive above the constitution and to commit our nation to violations of international justice, easily finds a way. His course, while filling the vacancy made by the death of President McKinley, can only be taken as an earnest of what he will do if the American people, by electing him president, shall approve his tendencies and methods.

"Here is the issue which every citizen must now decide. The statesman who until recently was chief judge on the highest court of New York, is the leader of those who stand for constitutional government of this country, strong and canduring in the union of liberty and law."
